Chamber of Commerce
Against His Retiring.

A special subcommittee of the committee on legislation of the Chamber of Commerce will meet this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock to consider the plea of the Ladies' Tailoring Association of Washington, which is protesting against the exhibition here by foreign tailors and firms of their various wares, and without the payment of license.

At a recent meeting of the Ladies' Tailoring Association resolutions were passed condemning the practice of allowing outside firms to exhibit dresses, millinery, lingerie, and other kinds of wearing apparel in the various show rooms about the city without the payment of a local license. The aid of the Chamber of Commerce and the District Commissioners is asked to secure the enactment of the law requiring that foreign firms shall obtain a license before placing their goods temporarily on sale in the Capital.

The Chamber of Commerce committee which will consider the plea of the Ladies' Tailoring Association is composed of Charles Darr, Thomas L. Hume, James A. Toomey, W. B. Guy, Arthur Copeland, and George C. Gertman.

Would Limit Power.

The committee on law and order of the Chamber of Commerce has been called to meet tomorrow afternoon for the purpose of drafting a bill to be presented to Congress limiting the powers of the humane society of this city. The purpose of the Chamber to take action on this matter came up for discussion at the June meeting of the directors held yesterday afternoon, and was generally approved.

Two new standing committees were appointed, twenty-five new members elected, and numerous other matters of minor import were considered by the directors during the course of their conference.

Whether or not the Chamber has not gone too far in appointing committees to look after civic matters, came in for a long discussion during the consideration of the motion of Dr. Lettich-Sinclair for the appointment of a new standing committee on highways, parks and bridges. The question of the relation of the Board of Trade to the Chamber entered into the discussion, several members pointing out that the Chamber of Commerce was designed to handle the commercial interests of the District primarily, and that the Board of Trade could be depended upon to look after matters of a civic nature. The appointment of the committee in question was authorized by unanimous vote at the close of the meeting of the directors on public health was also authorized.

Tribute To Sylvester.

The directors unanimously adopted a resolution introduced by R. P. Andrews, urging Major Sylvester to again accept the position of president of the International Association of Chiefs of Police if the nomination was again tendered him. The Chamber expressed the highest confidence in Chief Sylvester and several of the members praised his work in the District. His selection as head of the police chiefs' association is regarded as an honor to the city as well as a recognition of his high abilities.

Treasurer A. Linsner reported that the Chamber has a balance of $2,070.45 in the treasury.

Committees Named.

The new committees appointed include:

Committee on public health: Dr. J. J. Richards, vice chairman; Dr. H. E. Coblenz, chairman; Dr. J. C. Simpson, Dr. L. D. Walter, Dr. William F. Walter, Dr. L. D. Wilson, Dr. William C. Woodward, Dr. William R. Wunder, Fred W. Carpenter, William D. Hoover, Ira E. Bennett, Dr. Ralph Burton, and Dr. C. H. Vance.

Committee on highways, parks and bridges: Joseph L. Weller, chairman; William F. Richards, vice chairman; E. O. Whitford, E. G. Siggers, Washington Topham, Samuel Ross, J. Whit Herron, August G. Hermann, Allen Davis, Edwin H. Eitz, J. A. Whitfield, Richard W. Henderson, James Sharpe, George Pitt, N. L. Burchell, John Fleming, Melvin C. Hager, Hugh E. Harvey, Frank C. Henry, Z. D. Blackstone, Joseph Jacob, A. D. Prince, George C. Jordan, Frank A. Harrison, M. G. Copeland, and Norman T. Engel.

The new members elected were: Eugene L. Beech, A. Brylawski, Oscar C. Brothers, Correll E. Brooks, William James Cawthorn, Ernest J. Clark, W. H. Conant, John Edward Kreh, Jr., R. Holt Easley, Norman T. Engel, M. J. Falvey, Carey S. Free, Walter B. Gay, George Henderson, H. R. Livingston, James F. McHugh, George M. Myers, Stanton R. Norman, J. A. Rad, William P. Richards, Charles L. Simms, Wallace and Cadick, Incorporated, Percy Wade, Edward L. Williams.

There are 400 disappointed little children in Washington today. And the rain is responsible for it. They were children in the different orphan institutions, who were to have been the guests of the Automobile Club of Washington on a trip to Glen Echo, where preparations had been made for their entertainment. The affair was postponed until Tuesday.

AIRSHIPS DISRUPT GERMAN MILITARY

Kaiser Clashes With Advisers
Over Selection of Type.
People With Ruler.

BERLIN, June 3.—A noisy controversy which has already involved most of the high military officials and the Emperor has arisen over the question, Which is the better adapted for army use, rigid or flexible airships? The recent phenomenal flight of the Zeppelin dirigible has added fuel to the flames and the signal corps is divided as never before.

The Zeppelin is a rigid one, while the smaller types, the Gross and the smaller types, are flexible. The war office has steadily rejected the Zeppelin kind and has purchased only the Gross dirigible model. This has caused friction with the Emperor, who has openly insisted that the Zeppelin machine is the best Germany has yet turned out.

This declaration has almost caused an open rupture between the Kaiser and his own military advisers. The latter, headed by Baron Lyncker, chief of the imperial military cabinet, stubbornly believe all of Zeppelin's claims.

Public opinion favors Zeppelin. He is a popular idol and his achievements are lauded to the skies.

Italy To Buy Aeroplane.

ROME, June 3.—Owing to the recent accident to the Wright aeroplane in a flight by Lieutenant Calderara it has been decided to open negotiations for the purchase of a new machine from the Wrights in France.

AERIAL DEFENSIVE PLANS ARE ORDERED

That the dirigible and the aeroplane have found a place in the war plans of the nations of the earth is evidenced by the fact that Major George O. Squire, Signal Corps, U. S. A., has been directed by the Secretary of War to prepare a comprehensive plan for the defense of the coast lines of the United States by dirigible balloons working in conjunction with the coast artillery stations.

Major Squire will work out the cost of the various features of the plan and the whole will be considered by other experts and then filed for future use in the War Department. It is desired to secure these plans for the purpose of presenting the necessities of the service to Congress and to re-enforce the recommendations of the chief signal officer of the army as to the purchase of dirigibles and aeroplanes.

A series of stations along the coast lines is contemplated, with dirigible houses at intervals of about 250 miles, this distance representing the zone of activity of each of the balloons to be used. In time of war dirigibles will be employed along this line in large numbers, operating singly or in groups, for the purpose of supplying information as to an enemy's fleet. Aeroplanes can be used as messengers between the artillery stations and the dirigibles or from dirigible to dirigible. Wireless communication will be maintained between the aerial fleet and the shore.

utterances of Senators Aldrich and Dewey in this matter.

Senator Aldrich answered with a tribute to the Kaiser, and said he was not denouncing the German government, but German manufacturers who were trying to influence Congress. He declared Germany was America's principal rival and competitor.

Senator Tillman entered the debate to ask if there wasn't some mystery about all this, some hocus pocus, and why the document was not at hand. Senator Aldrich explained the State Department was translating it. Then Senator Tillman asked for the immediate printing of the abstract of the document previously made, and this was declined. Senator Dewey followed with a speech standing by his previous utterances.

Asks For Correspondence.

Senator La Follette introduced a resolution requesting the President to send the Senate copies of all correspondence between the Government and the German government, or between officials having relations to this report.

Senator La Follette asked immediate consideration, but Aldrich objected, and it went over. This aroused La Follette and he attacked the Finance Committee for seeking to "bottle up" the document in vigorous language.

"I suggest to the Senator from Rhode Island," he said, "that it is not for him to sample that document, and then refuse to allow the judgment of the Senate upon it. This Senate is capable of judging that document as he is. That document was never intended for private consideration by any Senator or committee."

Alluding to the "discreditable and unwarranted" statement that Senator Stone and others represented the German government, Mr. La Follette said:

Will Review Schedule.

"I ask the Senator from Rhode Island whom he represents on this floor." He added, that he would seek to show in further discussions, whom the Finance Committee is representing in the preparation of the cotton schedule.

After the better part of three hours had been consumed by the Senate today in a discussion of the document, recently sent to this country by the German government, dealing with wages and the cost of production, Senator La Follette took up his speech on the cotton schedule where he left off yesterday. He is expected to occupy most of the day.

The Senate will hold a night session this evening, lasting from 8 to 11.

MILLIONAIRE FIREMAN HURT

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—Five members of what is known as the "Millionaire Fire Company" were seriously injured while fighting a fire which destroyed a large barn owned by Dr. E. W. Powell at Bryn Mawr, a fashionable suburb. The injured were taken to a hospital. All will recover. Several wealthy men are members of the volunteer fire company with which the injured men are connected.

board of visitors this morning after seeing the battle drill of the midshipmen, accompanied by terrific artillery and infantry fire. The drill was the opening event of the third and last day of the practical exercises of June week.

This afternoon there will be a gun, mine, and torpedo drill, and practical work in mechanical engineering and marine construction. Tomorrow the week will come to an end in a flare of brilliance. The graduates will receive their diplomas in the morning; the farewell ball will be given in the evening.

The latter is, of course, the big social event of the week, and one of the notable affairs of the kind in the social world. Tremendous crowds always attend, and each succeeding class vies with the others in the effort to make the biggest and best ball that has ever been given.

The exercise this morning was a battle scene pure and simple, no time being lost in the usual preliminaries of using advance guards and flankers. This was done to prevent the drill from being unduly prolonged. The second battalion, under Lieutenant Vernou, had taken a strong position across College Creek from the parade grounds and two howitzers, forming part of the command, occupied positions on the sea wall, the parade ground coming within the sweep of their fire.

Infantry Intrenched.

The infantrymen of the first battalion under Lieut. E. J. King, were strongly intrenched in the sunken road and behind the stands which line the south side of the grounds. The engagement began when the guns of the second battalion opened a heavy fire from across the creek. Almost simultaneously the second battalion threw out an advance fire line, while the detachments of the second crossed the bridge and advanced from the north side of the grounds, deploying at double time into line of squads and then into line of skirmishers.

The skirmishers of the second battalion advanced upon the position held by the first, in the meantime being heavily re-enforced by column after column of infantry, while the artillery across the creek supported the advance by repeated volleys. The firing line of the first battalion gradually fell back in good order and formed with the main body in the road and behind the stands from which point the advancing force of the second battalion was held in check by a heavy volley and individual fire.

Just here the crucial moment of the engagement occurred, when the first battalion brought into action two guns which had been kept hidden behind the residence of the superintendent to the rear and side of the grounds. These swung into action, and at very close range poured volley after volley, presumably of canister, into the lines of the riflemen of the second battalion.

Great "Mortality."

The "mortality" was tremendous from both the infantry and artillery fire, and accounted to the member of the board of visitors for the shortage of officers, as the men were strewn with the canvas-clad midshipmen, who, however, were not half enough to represent the casualties which would have occurred had the men been exposed to real rifle and artillery fire.

The attacking force of the second battalion did not hold its ground and slowly and in good order retired across the road, the skirmish lines of the first battalion pressing closely. The final charge of the first battalion hemmed many of the second in the narrow road to the bridge, and effected their capture, leaving the honors of the engagement with the first battalion, which originally held the ground.

"When my little Vivian was about six months old, her papa had a boil on his forehead. At that time the child was covered with eruptions of the skin, and I supposed in scratching it, he had been infected from the bores. Being afraid it was salt rheum, I spoke to our doctor. He gave me a powder which dried it up, but soon after it broke out behind her ears. The last time it broke out was when she was six years old. It became so bad that I was discouraged. Then I procured a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, which soon cleared it out of her blood. I continued the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment with the Resolvent until she was perfectly well. She is now about eight years old and has never been troubled in the last two years. We also find Cuticura Resolvent a good spring medicine and we are just giving the children Cuticura Resolvent Pills. We do not think any one can praise Cuticura Remedies too highly. Mrs. M. A. ENGLAND ALARMED BY KAISER'S MOVE

Plan to Visit Russian Ruler
Causes Consternation
Among Diplomats.

LONDON, June 3.—The sudden and unexpected announcement that Emperor William and Chancellor von Buelow were to pay a visit to the Czar, either at Paval or off the Finnish coast, the middle of June, has so alarmed English diplomats that a campaign was started today to discourage the Czar's suggested visit to London.

The belief is general throughout England that the meeting of the Russian and German monarchs foreshadows a tightening of relations between these two countries to the detriment of the Russo-English entente.

The English foreign office attaches the greatest political significance to the proposed meeting, and while it does not indicate what Russia would be able to offer Germany, one of the officials of the department declared today that the Czar in numerous foreign and domestic difficulties which Nicholas is unable to solve, owing to military, naval, and financial weakness.

As a result the suggestion that the Czar include England in his coming literary tour has met with the strongest resistance and the old cry that he is responsible for the horrors of Russian prisons is urged against the Czar in many of the English papers today.

To Guard Czar.

NAPLES, June 3.—Although the Emperor of Russia does not contemplate a visit to Italy before the middle of July, the chief of the Russian secret service arrived here today, to begin the arrangements for the safety of the Czar during his stay in Italy.

It is reported that Maxim Gorky, the exiled Russian author, will be deported from his home in the island of Capri during the Czar's visit. Arrangements are being made for thousands of soldiers, police, and detectives to guard the Czar throughout every mile of his coming journey.

Hundreds Flock to Exhibition of Rugs and Draperies at Goldenberg's.

Attended by hundreds of eager buyers, one of the greatest sales of its kind ever held in Washington was opened at Goldenberg's this morning when the entire stock of Clark, Davenport & Co., purchased by Goldenberg's, and consisting of rugs, carpets, matting, draperies and upholstery goods, was placed on sale.

Goldenberg's unique proposition of holding any desired article until fall upon the payment of a reasonable deposit, interested many not in immediate need of such goods but who desired to take advantage of the bargain rates.

The fact that Clark, Davenport & Co. catered to exclusive trade, and that their stock was selected with care and with particular attention to distinctive style and superior quality, gave the event an unusual interest to the buying public. Seldom, it is said, has greater interest been taken in a Goldenberg sale of this character, nor have buyers appeared more appreciative of values and low prices. The sale will continue until the large stock of floor coverings and similar furnishings is disposed of.
